

FAREWELL TO NUCLEAR ARMS CONTROL? How to Handle Atomic Threats in Europe

MONDAY 3 - WEDNESDAY 5 JULY 2023
Protestant Academy Loccum

The nuclear (dis)order is shifting. Russia's full-scale invasion of Ukraine has further accelerated the erosion of the arms control architecture which started to become brittle some time ago. With Vladimir Putin's announcement to suspend Russia's participation in the New START treaty, many ask if we have to say farewell to nuclear arms control. In parallel, new and old nuclear powers around the world have taken efforts to modernize or even increase their atomic arsenals. Technological trends are posing challenges to strategic stability. On the multilateral dimension opposing views on nuclear weapons and fragmentation upon different approaches of disarmament continues to linger and further nourish the frustration with the implementation of the Non-Proliferation Treaty (NPT) and the inequality of the nuclear (dis)order.

How will Europe handle this situation? This event will bring together arms control experts, practitioners, and activists from across Europe to assess and evaluate the current situation. The conference aims to provide a forum that fosters innovative policy ideas to reduce threats and risks. Thereby, we focus particularly on the European "nuclear non-haves" and ask what role they could play in the future.

The conference is ilingual meaning that we provide throughout the sessions simultaneous German-English interpretation. The public event brings together actors from different walks of life who are all united by the fact that they are interested in the subject of the conference. However, this setting requires that we strictly follow the Chatham House rules. This is a draft program and may be subjected to change.

DAY I Monday 3 July 2023

- 14:00 Words of Welcome & Introduction of the Note-Taking Team
- Thomas MÜLLER-FÄRBER*, Program Director International Affairs, Protestant Academy Loccum
- 14:15 KICKOFF SESSION | Sketching the Broad Picture of Europe's Ongoing Nuclear Crisis
- Even before February last year, the nuclear architecture in Europe has become brittle and showed clear signs of erosion. Russia's war of aggression in Ukraine has further worsened the already complicated situation. This session aims to draw a broad picture of the current nuclear crisis in Europe and throw in some key questions that enrich upcoming debates at the conference.

Oliver THRÄNERT, Head of Think Tank, Center for Security Studies (CSS), Zürich

15:00 Coffee & Cake

15:30 ORIENTATION PANEL | Mapping Structural Trends of the Nuclear (Dis)Order

Worldwide, not just in Europe, the nuclear order is shifting. This session will assess major structural drivers, trends, and development that affect nuclear weapons issues now and in the future.

TECH: The Challenge of Technological Developments (Cyber, Space, Hypersonic, etc.)
Tytti ERÄSTÖ, Senior Researcher, Weapons of Mass Destruction Programme, SIPRI (Stockholm International Peace Research Institute), Solna

POLICY: Trends in Nuclear Decision Making & Signaling in a Growingly Multipolar Rivalry
Oliver MEIER, Director, Policy and Research, European Leadership Network, London/Berlin

17:00 Coffee & Tea Break

17:15 OUTLOOK TALK | What Future Trajectory for European Nuclear Non-Haves?

What role will non-nuclear Europeans play in future arms control, non-proliferation, and risk reduction initiatives? What will be their contribution to strategic stability? And how to organize the linkage to normative approaches of disarmament in the upcoming years?

Merle SPELLERBERG, MdP (The Greens), Chairwoman, Sub-Committee on Arms Control, Disarmament, and Nonproliferation, German Bundestag, Berlin/Dresden

Marjolijn VAN DEELEN, EU Special Envoy for Non-Proliferation and Disarmament, European Action Service, Brussels

--- Followed by discussion ---

18:30 Dinner

19:30 POLICY PERSPECTIVE PANEL | What Future for Nuclear Arms Control? (Plenary)

As nuclear arms control was eroding in recent years, the demands for its revitalization became more and more urgent and pronounced. With the war in Ukraine, the outlook has become even bleaker. Vladimir Putin's announcement in late February to suspend Russia's participation in the New START treaty has put a big questions mark at the fate of future bilateral arms control initiatives. This "policy perspective panel" and the following "analysts session" (next morning) will address among others the following questions: What structural challenges is arms control facing today in the era of geopolitical rivalry? Is there at all a future for bilateral arms control between the United States and Russia? Would it be possible to engage China in arms control? Will non-traditional/non-treaty-based approaches to arms control have a chance? Etc.

Impulses from a Policy Perspective:

Federica DALL'ARCHE, Advisor to the Italian Foreign Ministry and Senior Research Associate, Vienna Center for Disarmament and Non-Proliferation (VCDNP), Vienna/Rom

Klaus DE RIJK, Strategic Advisor on Arms Control and Strategic Stability, Dutch Ministry of Foreign Affairs, The Hague

Sigurd SCHELSTRAETE, Director Disarmament and Non-Proliferation, Belgian Ministry of Foreign Affairs, Brussels

--- followed by plenary discussion ---

21:00 Informal Get Together at the Gallery

DAY II TUESDAY 4 July 2023

08:30 Breakfast

09:15 1st INTERJECTION | How to Handle “Atomic Angst” and Improve “Nuclear Literacy”

The Kremlin's extraordinary allusion to use of nuclear weapons has triggered a vivid debate in the Western European public (and in particular here in Germany) about nuclear risks. In this first interjectory session, we will address questions like: Reflecting on recent debates on nuclear threats, what lessons need to be drawn for future public discussions? How to increase the knowledge of nuclear issues among decision-makers and the wider public alike? What are appropriate ways of debating nuclear risk publicly? Etc.

Benoît PELOPIDAS, Head, Nuclear Knowledges Program and Chair of Excellence in Security Studies at CERi (Sciences Po), Paris

10:00 ANALYSTS' SESSION | What Future for Nuclear Arms Control? (Breakout Session)

Impulses from an Academia/Think Tank Perspective:

Room A:

William ALBERQUE, Director of Strategy, Technology and Arms Control, IISS (International Institute for Strategic Studies), Berlin (online)

Moderation: Franziska STÄRK, Researcher, Institute for Peace Research and Security Policy at the University of Hamburg (IFSH), Hamburg

Room E:

Polina SINOVETS, Head of the Odessa Center for Non-Proliferation (OdCNP) and Associate Professor at the Department of International Relations, Odessa

Moderation: Jannis KAPPELMANN, Researcher and Lecture, Department “Global Governance”, University Hamburg

11:30 Coffee & Tea Break

11:45 2nd INTERJECTION | A Forecast on Disarmament Diplomacy – What will happen at the NPT PreCom 2023, the next TPNW State Party Meeting, and beyond?

In this second interjection discussion, we will address questions like: What's on the to-do list for the next NPT PrepCom in August 2023 and the next TPNW State Party Meeting? What opportunities and challenges do the involved players face? How will these preparatory processes contribute to the 2026 NPT Review process and the future role of the TPNW?

Kick-off impulse: Federica DALL'ARCHE, Advisor to the Italian Foreign Ministry and Senior Research Associate, Vienna Center for Disarmament and Non-Proliferation (VCDNP), Vienna/Rom

12:30 Lunch

13:30 Optional Sightseeing Tour to the Monastery Loccum (founded 1163)

15:00 Coffee & Cake

15:30 POLICY PERSPECTIVE PANEL | Strategic Stability – Fit and Secure for the Future? (Plenary)

Nuclear deterrence never disappeared but receded into the background for a long time. Now, the ear of intensified geopolitical rivalry it regained importance. In this session, we will ask questions: to what degree was the thinking about nuclear deterrence changed due to Russia's war of aggression in Ukraine and the Kremlin's vocal allusion to the use of nuclear weapons? What proposals for nuclear risk reduction are available? How to avoid the danger of deterrence breakdowns and failures? Etc.

Impulses from a Policy Perspective:

Ingeborg DENISSEN, Head of the Non-Proliferation, Disarmament and Nuclear Affairs Division, Security Policy Department, Ministry of Foreign Affairs in the Hague

François HEISBOURG, Senior Advisor for Europe at the International Institute for Security Studies (IISS) and Special Adviser at the Fondation Pour La Recherche Stratégique (FRS), Paris

Moderation: Alice SALTINI, Research Coordinator, European Leadership Network, Rom

18:30 Dinner

19:30 3rd INTERJECTION | Iran and its Nuclear Program – Inevitable Escalation?

How is the current state of Iran's nuclear program? Is there still a future for the JCPOA? If there is no nuclear deal, what comes afterwards? How is future non-proliferation policy towards Iran entangled with other crucial issues – namely, the revolutionary uprising in Iran or Teheran's geopolitical ambitions in the region?

Jane KINNINMONT, Policy & Impact Director, European Leadership Network, London

Azadeh ZAMIRIAD, Deputy Head of Africa & Middle East Research Division, German Institute for International and Security Affairs (SWP), Berlin

Moderation: Tytti ERÄSTÖ, Senior Researcher, Weapons of Mass Destruction Programme, SIPRI (Stockholm International Peace Research Institute), Solna
